Successive Stages in the Transfer of the Remains of the Báb from Persia to the Holy Land and the Erection of His Mausoleum on Mount Carmel

Execution of the Báb in Tabrīz and the exposure of His mangled body on the edge of the moat outside the city, July 9, 1850.

Wrapping of His remains in a cloak, their secret removal to the silk factory owned by one of the believers of Mi'ān and their deposition in a small wooden casket, July 11, 1850.

Transportation, in accordance with Bahá'u'lláh's instructions, of the casket to Tihrān and its concealment in the shrine of Imám-Zādīh Hasan.

Removal of the remains to the home of Hájí Sulaymān Khān and their subsequent transfer to the shrine of Imám-Zādīh Ma'sūm.

Instructions issued by Bahá'u'lláh, while in Adrianople, to Mullá 'Alí Akbar-i-Shahmirzādī and Jamāl-i-Burūjīr'ī, to transfer the casket to a safer hiding place, and its temporary concealment within a wall of the Masjid-i-Ma'sūm outside the gates of the capital, 1857-1858.

Detection of the hiding place of the casket and its smuggling into Tihrān and its deposition in the house of Mírzá Ḥasan-i-Vazir, a believer and son-in-law of Hájí Mírzā Siyyid 'Alíy-i-Tafrīshī, the Majdú'l-'Akhfāf.
Entombment of the remains of the Purest Branch and of the Mother, sister and wife of 'Abdu'l-Baha in the vicinity of the Shrine, as a prelude to the establishment of the World Administrative Center of the Faith in that same neighborhood.

Unveiling of the model designed by W. S. Maxwell for the superstructure of the Shrine on the occasion of the centenary celebrations of the Declaration of the Bab in Haifa on May 23, 1944.

of the Arcade and Parapet of the Shrine, amounting to approxi-ately eight hundred tons, and their transportation from Italy to Haifa.

Fate of Those Who Persecuted the Báb, Who Opposed the Construction of His Shrine and Threatened its Destruction

MUHAMMAD SHAH, who disregarded the appeal of the Báb to meet Him in person and plead His Cause, sustained a sudden reverse of fortune, and succumbed, at the age of forty, to a complication of maladies.

NASIRI'D-DIN SHAH, during whose reign the Báb was executed, and under whose aegis the greatest massacre of the Bábís took place, was, in the plenitude of his power, dramatically assassinated on the eve of his jubilee. The Qájár dynasty to which he belonged was subsequently brought to an ignominious end.

HÁJI MIRZA AQASÍ, the Grand Vazir of Muhammad Sháh and chief instigator of the outrages perpetrated against the Báb, was disgraced by his sovereign, lost his fortune, was expelled to KarbílÁ, and became a victim of disease and poverty.

MIRZA TAQÍ KHÁN, the Amir Niṣám, the Grand Vazir of Náṣirí'd-Dín Sháh, who was directly responsible for the execution of the Báb, was disgraced and put to death by the royal order in the bath of the Palace of Fin, near Káshán.

MIRZÁ HASÁN KHÁN, who carried out the execution of the Báb, was subjected, two years after, to a dreadful punishment which ended in his death.

MIRZÁ 'ALÍ-ÂṢGÁR, the Shaykhul-Islám of Tabríz, who inflicted the bastinado on the Báb with his own hand, was stricken, in that same year, with paralysis, and died a miserable death.

THE REGIMENT, which constituted the firing squad that executed the Báb, lost, in that same year, two hundred and fifty of its officers and men in an earthquake near Ardibil, while the remain ing five hundred were shot, two years later, in Tabríz, for mutiny. The head of the regiment, Aqá Ján Big, lost his life, six years after the martyrdom of the Báb, during the bombard ment of Muḥammad Kháqán by the British.

THE SHI'ÁH SACERDOTAL ORDER, which violently opposed the Báb, aroused the populace and instigated the government against Him, was discredited, fell from power, and ceased to exercise its paramount influence on both the people and the government.

SULTÁN 'ABDU'L-HAMÍD II, who lent his support to the enemies of the Faith in their efforts to obstruct the construction of the Shrine of the Báb, was deposed and made a prisoner of state.
The Caliphate was subsequently abolished and the Sultanate ceased to exist.

THE FOUR MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION OF INQUIRY, who were appointed by 'Abdu'l-Hamíd to investigate the activities of 'Abdu'l-Baha, and who misrepresented the Shrine of the Báb as

The Badi’ or Bahá’í Calendar

This calendar was laid down by the Báb in His Book the “Kitáb-i-Asmá” and further elucidated by Bahá’u’lláh in these words: “The Year Sixty, A.H. (1844 A.D.), the year of the Declaration of the Báb, must be regarded as the beginning of the Badi’ Calendar.” Therefore all Bahá’í reckoning commences with that Declaration which took place on the evening preceding the fifth day of Jámádí-yu’l-Avval, of the year 1260 A.H. (May 23, 1844). The Solar calendar is followed and the Bahá’í New Year, called “Naw-Rúz,” falls on the vernal equinox which takes place on March 21.

Ayyámar (Intercalary Days) February 26 to March 1 inclusive — four in ordinary and five in leap years.
The Báb has regarded the solar year of 365 days, 5 hours, and 50 odd minutes, as consisting of 19 months of 19 days each, every new day being reckoned as starting from sunset, not midnight. Every fourth year, the number of intercalary days is raised from four to five. Naw-Rúz, or New Year, falls on the 21st of March only if the vernal Equinox precedes the setting of the sun on that day. Should the vernal Equinox take place after sunset, Naw-Rúz will be celebrated on the following day.

The Báb has divided the years following the date of His Revelation into cycles of nineteen years each. Each cycle of nineteen years He has named a Váhid, and nineteen Váhids constitute a period called by Him a Kull-i-Shay. The numerical value of the word 'Váhid' is 19 and that of 'Kull-i-Shay' is 361. "Váhid" signifies unity and is symbolic of the unity of God.
