

PORO HAPPENINGS

Dr. George C. Shropshear gave his final lecture in a series Tuesday morning in the school. He showed the new film entitled "For All Our Sake," which showed the fight that is being waged against syphilis and venereal diseases. He expressed his appreciation for the manner in which the student body received the lecture and his willingness to be of service to Poro college and its faculty. Dr. Shropshear received the highest grade in the city-wide examination for clinician and was the only Race doctor competing. Dr. Shropshear was a dinner guest following the lecture.

Marshall Miles of this city matriculated in the college Monday.

Mrs. Annie Malone was a special guest at the dinner Friday evening which honored Robert S. Abbott at the Woman's club. She was accompanied by Mrs. Cordell Eggleston.

Mrs. Lois McGhee McFall, Detroit, Mich., and Miss Novella McGhee were tendered a special dinner on Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Annie M. Malone in her home, 4411 South Parkway.

The Howard Alumnae Association of Chicago entertained with a banquet on Wednesday night in the dining room and over 100 guests were present.

Lloyd Norris, a clerk, was a soloist on March 3 at the Bahai center, 116 S. Michigan avenue, and Miss Pearl Ntsiko of South Africa was one of the speakers. Miss Ntsiko returns to her home during the latter part of the month.

A committee from Greater Bethel A. M. E. church, headed by the Rev. Peck, assistant pastor and a committee from Poro college will meet Friday at 6 p.m. to make plans for a monster coiffure review at Monumental church, Oakwood boulevard and Vincennes avenue, April 22.

James Brothers has secured a Blue Back Speller from his grandmother and on Friday morning will conduct an old fashion spelling class. The runner-up will be given a luncheon by Mr. Brothers.

At the last regular meeting of the Poro organization, each member was requested to give the name of a proposed play and its outline with a view of staging the play at some future time. It was interesting to note the seriousness with which each member participated. A censor board will be appointed to go over the names and manuscripts submitted.

Lloyd Norris of the Poro staff returned Monday morning from Beloit, Wis., where a university day program was held at the Methodist Episcopal church of that city of which Rev. Herman Zimmerman is pastor. Mr. Norris spoke on the subject, "Building a Nation." Those of this city who participated were: Clyde Wakefield, pianist; Mr. and Mrs. Chandra Sing, Bombay, India; Mrs. Pearl Ntsiko, South Africa; Mrs. Ethel Mortison, Sweden; Miss Cymberline Butler, Northwestern university, and Cassius Butler. Lester Brown of the University of Chicago acted as master of ceremonies.
