Churches, Synagogues to Lead L.A. Peace March

A coalition of churches and synagogues will stage a peace demonstration June 14 to bring the city's diverse communities together at a symbolic gesture of unity, religious leaders said Monday.

The "Hands Across L.A. All Peoples One City" gathering will bring together hundreds of several faiths who will walk a 30-mile route on Western Avenue, between Franklin and Phoenix avenues.

Major Tom Hickey is expected to join the marchers, as will the heads of the Park Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church and the Young-Suk Presbyterian Church, both in the core area of the city. Also participating will be representatives from the Spiritual Church of Los Angeles, the Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'i of Los Angeles and the New Presidents Baptist Church. The demonstration route will pass about 40 churches and synagogues, which will ring their bells as a sign of solidarity, Parble said.

Ex-nun helps promote Baha'i faith

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A former nun is helping to bring a new faith to Michigan.

"This is a Mother Teresa in a way," said Margaret Wegs, a 66-year-old former Franciscan nun from Dubuque, Iowa. "She handled a new religion to serve the poor in the past. I hope to see lives with the Baha'is."

She always based religious life on the teachings of Jesus Christ and the teachings of the Baha'is.

Her calling has developed into a mission to help people understand the Baha'is.

Wegs has been a member of all religions, including Catholicism, and she has been a nun for 30 years. She has been a nun since 1968. She was a nun in the order of the Sisters of the Holy Family.

BAHA'I FAITH is the youngest of the world's independent religions. Its teachings emphasize abandonment of all forms of prejudice, the unity of religious truth, harmony of science and religion, the reduction of the extremes of wealth and poverty and a global commonwealth of nations. Sunday morning adult, youth and children's classes teach virtues, prayer, study of Holy writings from all religions, love for God and respect for all people.
