

ARTHUR P. DODGE DEAD, AFTER VARIED CAREER

Lawyer, Inventor, Publisher,
Author and Student of Religion Succumbs at 65.

Arthur Pillsbury Dodge, lawyer, inventor, publisher, and member of the bars of New York, New Hampshire, Illinois, and Massachusetts, died yesterday at his home in Freeport, L. I., in his sixty-sixth year. He was born in Enfield, N. H., and was a direct descendant of Simon Dodge, who came to this country from England in 1630. Mr. Dodge educated himself, and was admitted to the bar of Massachusetts in 1879, and for a time was attorney for Mary Baker G. Eddy, at that time an apostle of Phineas Parker Quimby, the founder of Christian Science.

In 1886 Mr. Dodge founded The New England Magazine, and later founded The Bay State Monthly and The Granite State Monthly. Dr. Edward Everett Hale and William Dean Howells were both associated with Mr. Dodge in these enterprises.

In 1892, Mr. Dodge went to Chicago and was admitted to the bar of Illinois and became interested with the late George M. Pullman and devoted his time to the development of the Dodge System of Stored Heat Motive Power. Later he founded the Kinetic Power Company, the Dodge Motor Company, and the Kinetic Manufacturing Company.

Mr. Dodge bought the franchise of the Babylon Railroad at Babylon, L. I., and, with the aid of the late Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll, planned to use it to demonstrate his system of stored heat motive power. Later he sold the franchise to the Pennsylvania Railroad. In 1900, in company with his wife, who was Miss Elizabeth Ann Day of Boston, and whom he married in 1870, he made a pilgrimage to the ancient prison city of Acre in Palestine, Syria, where Abdul Baha Abbas was proclaiming the Bahai message to the world. Three years ago, Abbas visited this country and was entertained by Mr. Dodge, who made arrangements whereby he was allowed to preach the gospel of Universal Peace and Unification of Religions in a number of important churches throughout the United States.

Mr. Dodge was a profound student of religion and was the author of a number of books on religion, the most recent of which were "The Truth of It" and "Whence? Why? Whither?"

He is survived by his wife and three sons, William C. Dodge, a lawyer of 14 Nassau Street; Wendell Phillips Dodge, editor of the Strand Magazine, and Richard P. Dodge, a scenic artist.

His funeral services will be held from his late residence at Freeport on Thursday and the interment will take place in the Dodge plot in Wakefield, Mass.

Rev. Frederick A. De Rosset.

The Rev. Frederick A. De Rosset, rector of the Holy Communion Church at Charleston, S. C., died in that city yesterday at the age of 59. He was graduated from the University of the South in 1878 and was tutor in the theological school of that university, subsequently holding the office of curate in Holy Trinity, St. Thomas's, St. Georges's, and other New York City churches. In 1882 Mr. De Rosset married Mary Williams Greer, granddaughter of Bishop William Mercer Greer, who, with five children, survives him.

Alexander Douglas Cambell.

Alexander Douglas Cambell, Assistant Cashier of the Hanover National Bank, with which he had been connected for more than thirty years, died yesterday at his home, 131 Riverside Drive, in his fifty-fifth year. He was born in this city and was widely known in banking circles all over the United States, having attended all the bankers' conventions as the delegate of his bank. Mr. Cambell was a member of the Larchmont and Columbia Yacht Clubs. His wife, who was Miss Ida Hatch, and a daughter, Miss Abigail Alison Cambell, survive him.
